READY FOR LEGISLATURE

Officials at the Capital
Are Getting Things in Trim.

The Capitol building has been transformed into a place for the meeting of the Legislature. That is, the Secretary's room has been made over for the use of the Senate, and the Throne room is being put in order for the assembling of the House on Wednesday morning. In the Senate Chamber, the fourteen desks and the President's chair are arranged precisely as they were two years ago, and the clerks and stenographers have their old places. The President of the Senate will have the Secretary's little porch room in the corner for a retiring room, and it will be used likewise as a committee room. The clerks and stenographers will be cooped up, even as they were two years ago.

The arrangement of the old throne room will also be in all essential respects as it was before. The heads of most of the executive departments were at work on Sunday, putting the finishing touches on their reports to the legislature, and the Governor's message has been to all practical intents and purposes completed. It will be transmitted to the two houses as soon as the Governor is notified, officially, that they are in session and ready to receive. It is a longer document, it is said, than any Governor has heretofore sent in, and covers about all the subject matters of public interest that have come up for the Governor's consideration in the past two years—and many that are expected to come up within the next two.

A second executive document will be the Governor's financial estimates of the needs of the several departments of the government. This will be a particular interest, because if there is any county legislation, then there must of necessity be a revision of the estimates and a division of the available money between the Territorial government and the proposed counties. It is at this point that the work of the Accounts Commission will come before the legislature. But little has been heard of the Accounts Commission lately, but it is understood that the Commissioners have been hard at work, and that its estimates will be ready for consideration when the legislature is ready to take the matter up.

AFTERMATH OF KAPAA POSTOFFICE SHORTAGE

Aloiau and Isaac Kauhoe are being sued by the United States for $1891, with interest from September 15, 1904, on a promissory note made on June 15 previous at 90 days. The note was given to cover the defalcation of Kauhoe's father as postmaster at Kapa, Kauai.

Originally the defendants gave a bond in $1000 for the appearance of Postmaster Kauhoe. When the defalcation in a larger amount was proved, Postal Inspector Hare required security to cover it. Sixty days' time was allowed by him and the note was made accordingly.

There was a hearing before Judge Dole yesterday afternoon on demurrer the ground of which was lack of consideration, Assistant District Attorney Dunne appearing for the United States and C. W. Ashford for the defendants. It was continued until 10 o'clock this morning.

Crying for Help

Lots of it in Honolulu But
Daily Growing Less.

Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble.

It is the kidneys' first cry for help.

Heed it.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are what is wanted.

Are just what overworked kidneys need.

They strengthen and invigorate the kidney; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Read the proof from a Honolulu citizen.

Mr. Charles Comey, of Cyclometer street, this city, one of the many persons who have tried Doan's Backache Kidney Pills with great advantage, relates his experience thus: "I have been a hack driver for a number of years past and this is an occupation in which, through exposure to weather and much jumping up and down from the vehicle, one is particularly liable to kidney complaint. I suffered myself from a lame back for a long while, and in my anxiety to get rid of it tried several things which did not reach the root of my trouble. An advertisement acquainted me with what grand work Doan's Backache Kidney Pills were doing, and I got some of them at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. I used them and with very much profit, for they relieved my back wonderfully."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

HIGHS ARE CHAMPIONS

Beat Y. W. C. A. Basketballers by Score of 24-6.

In the final game of basketball to decide the 1905 championship, the High School girls walked off the field with colors flying. They gave the Y. W. a terrible drubbing to the tune of 24 to 6. This is the first time that the High School girls have won the honor so they are happy to the extreme.

There was a huge crowd on hand to watch this final contest and those present were not all backward in rooting for their favorites. It reminded one of a varsity football game.

The Y. W. were completely outclassed and lost to a team that was better drilled and superior in that one great factor of athletic contests—team work. Yesterday the H. S. worked like one person. Every girl was in her proper place when required. They tossed and passed that pigskin like old-timers. At times they played so fast that the Y. W. were content to look on.

It was thought that the game would be a hotly contested one. Few people dared to pick a winner, in fact, every one thought that the Y. W. would play a much stiffer game and it seemed to those who have watched their work throughout the season that they had an off day yesterday. They certainly have played better ball. The rush with which the H. S. opened off probably took them completely by surprise and they were always at their mercy. At the end of the first half the Highs had the game well in hand by a lead of 15 to 2.

At the beginning of the second half the Y. W. came on the field determined to overcome the lead but their efforts were of no avail. They deserve praise for the way in which they struggled in face of odds.

This season has been a complete success for the game. They have drawn better than in previous years and the teams have all worked harder. The championship has remained in doubt to the very last game and in all the five teams have done exceedingly well in their play.

Following is the line-up:

High School—Smith, M. Crews, forwards; Robertson, E. Smith, centers; Akau, Stone, guards.

Y. W. C. A.—Schaefer, C. Crews, forwards; Holder, Makee, centers; Williams, Dowsett, guards.

Prepared for Croup.—The time wasted in sending for a physician when a child shows symptoms of the croup, often leads to fatal results. A reliable medicine and one that should always be used is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It never fails and will prevent the attack if given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears. For sale by all Dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd.

ARM OF THE TERRITORY REACHES TO FAR JAPAN

Chester A. Doyle to be Sent to the Mikado's
Kingdom to Bring Back a Murderer.

It has been decided by the Territorial officials to extradite Uyeke Kamitaro, alias Kamizo, a Japanese who murdered the woman that he was living with in Kona on December 21st last, and Chester A. Doyle will be sent to Japan to bring the man back.

"We have asked for and received the authorization for his extradition from the Federal authorities," said Governor Carter yesterday. "The man is not in custody in Japan, but under their system there he is probably where the authorities can put their hands on him. The case against him is one of circumstantial evidence, largely, nevertheless we have deemed it wise to bring him back in order to demonstrate to these people that the Territory has a long arm, also, for evil doers, and that it can get the help of Uncle Sam to bring back offenders against the law, no matter how far they may run."

The Japanese, it appears from the evidence in the case, was living with a woman, Hide Tanaka, in Kona. One day he came down to Honolulu just about in time to catch a steamer for Japan, and sailed away to his old home. A short time after he had gone, some of his old neighbors in Kona, going to the house where the couple had lived, found the woman with her head mashed to a jelly. She had evidently been the victim of a murder of the most atrocious kind.

Search was at once made for Kamitaro, and it was found that he had escaped to Japan, but the grand jury took the matter up nevertheless, Chester Doyle handling the evidence, and the man was indicted for murder. Then the Federal authorities at Washington were appealed to, and within a few days the authorization for extradition was cabled from Washington. This is the first request of the kind that has been made under the new treaty with Japan, and the Japanese authorities will no doubt be very glad to accommodate the American authorities in every way possible.

The man, it is understood, is not in custody in Japan, but the Japanese authorities have a way of keeping their subjects under observation, and he could probably be landed in jail within a few hours after it was known that he was wanted here. The thing has been done before. The extradition papers are expected here on the next Alameda, and Doyle will take the next steamer for Japan following their arrival here.

SAW FLEET DESTROYED

Paroled Russian Officers
Pass Through Honolulu.

Fifteen Russian naval officers attached to the ill-fated Port Arthur fleet, who were captured when General Stoessel surrendered the Far Eastern fortress and were granted parole by the Japanese, passed through Honolulu yesterday on the Siberia en route to St. Petersburg, via San Francisco, New York, London and Paris. The officers were the cynosure of all eyes while in Honolulu, as they were the first of the Czar's sea-fighters to visit Honolulu since the fall of Port Arthur.

Those who have read that the Czar's fighting men are big, husky fellows were disappointed in the appearance of these officers. Physically they were not impressive. Among them were officers had served on the ill-fated battleship Sebastopol, the last ship torpedoed by the Japanese; the Retvisan, the first vessel to feel the impact of the deadly submarine missile; the unfortunate Peresviet, while one at least, was saved from possible death on the Novik by having had an early transfer to one of the vessels at Port Arthur.

Captain N. O. Essen, was commander of the Sebastopol; Capt. E. Schensnovitch, formerly in command of the battleship Retvisan; Capt. N. A. Saxe, formerly in command of the naval transport Yermack; Lieut. P. P. Ostetelsky, formerly on the staff of Admiral Wiren; Lieut. A. J. Bezstuzeff, formerly executive officer of the Sebastopol; Lieut. P. N. Wesselskin, formerly attaché of the Russian Admiralty at Port Arthur; Lieut. N. V. Krotkoe and S. V. Kovalevsky of the battleship Peresviet; Lieut. A. Ovaner of the Sebastopol; Lieut. S. F. Tirtoff, V. S. Denisoff, V. N. Butkevitch, V. A. Becklenisheff and Ryzye of the Peresviet and Lieut. B. Roumine of the Sebastopol.

The officers on arrival at Honolulu called upon Mons. A. Vizzavona, the French Consul, not understanding at the time that there was a Russian Consul in the city. Mons. Vizzavona directed them to Mr. Alexander Isenberg, the local Russian consular representative. Most of the officers speak French and but one or two understand English. Their fellow-passengers on the Siberia speak in the highest terms of them.

The officers came aboard the Siberia at Nagasaki under the surveillance of Japanese detectives, a precaution to prevent coolies from attacking them. They were not permitted to land at Yokohama while the Siberia was at that port. At San Francisco the officers may sympathize with the officers of the dismantled Russian cruiser Lena which is laid up at Mare Island.

CODE COMMISSION.

Massachusetts in the Revised Statutes of 1902 and the last California revision. The inside margin is numbered. If the legislature goes to amending the laws they can do so by striking out a certain word in line so-and-so.

The Commissioners have prepared, in addition, a report to the legislature which goes into considerable detail of what has been done and how accomplished, and with that report they submit the form of a bill, and suggest that the legislature enact the revised laws in toto. The bill has been carefully prepared after study of similar bills in various states.

This is the first time all the laws have been brought together in one book. The last previous authority for revision was passed in 1859, but only for the Civil Laws. The Penal Law revision came in 1869, although there was a compilation in 1874 and Ballou's 1897.

The Commissioners, with C. F. Clemons as clerk, have been engaged in the work continuously since the legislative authority was made in 1903. The work has been wearing on the commissioners and some appear to have lost weight.

The work calls for 1800 copies which are to be disposed of by the Treasurer of the Territory at $10 per volume.

bastopol left the harbor on the fateful night that the Japanese torpedoed her, she had but one day's ammunition, the remainder having been taken off for safety, that is, if anything happened to the vessel, her ammunition would be ashore where it could be used by naval guns erected into land batteries.

Captain Van Essen and Captain Saxe told an interesting story of the loss of the battleship Petropavlovsk, when Admiral Makarov lost his life. Captain van Essen was within two miles of the battleship when she sank. Scarcely two minutes elapsed after she struck a mine before she went down. Both officers stated that the Russian warships at Port Arthur lacked ammunition. These officers with their ships went out with the Czarvitch and other ships when the fleet attempted to escape, but their vessels were forced to return to Port Arthur because of the terrific battering they received from the Japanese guns. Then the vessels were repaired but they did not venture out again. The large guns had no ammunition and therefore the commanders felt it would be useless to go out to fight.

Both officers declared the reports that many steamers had run the blockade and entered Port Arthur with provisions and medical stores, were false. Only one vessel, the King Arthur, managed to elude the blockade and she brought in 50,000 sacks of flour.

When it was decided it would be useless to take the remaining vessels outside to engage the Japanese most of the guns were removed to the shore and mounted on land batteries. The big guns were left aboard, as, without ammunition they were useless.

"Had not the guns from the fleet been landed to aid in the land defense, I am certain Port Arthur would have fallen as early as last September," said Captain van Essen.

The Russian officers admit that the Japanese destroyed the vessels in the harbor after capturing 205-metre hill, and they admit also that on January 1, when they found they were surrender, they assisted in the destruction of the remainder. Captain van Essen was not present at the council of war called by General Stoessel but was aboard his vessel, the Sebastopol, which was outside the harbor. He claims to have sunk three Japanese torpedo boats while his vessel was outside, but on December 14 a torpedo struck the Sebastopol and put the steering apparatus out of gear. On January 1 he received orders to take the Sebastopol out into deep water and sink her. The vessel was taken seven or eight miles from land and was sunk in about 30 fathoms. He does not believe the Japanese can raise her. At the time of the surrender the vessel in Port Arthur were the battleship Peresviet, Poltava, Retvisan and Paldam, the cruisers Bayan and Palad, mine transport Amur, four destroyers and four or five other vessels. Six destroyers ran the blockade the night of January 1.

All the officers believe that General Stoessel held out as long as possible and are firm in the belief that he was a brave, able man. The garrison, the state, lived on horse flesh for five months.

They also believe the Baltic fleet will eventually come out to the aid of war.
